Where are they now?

Former students tell us where they have been since leaving Ohio University and what they wish they would have known before graduation

ALM MEDINA / PORTLAND, ORE.

Do you ever wonder where you will end up after graduation? At Ohio University? The idea of leaving Akron is scary for many students. I remember the first time I said "I will" to Ohio University. I was a "real world" boy from Akron's suburbs. I always wanted to make sure that to graduate meant I'd be all at sea.

Whether they worked several positions before leaving or they liked, or loathed their dream job right out of college, these former Terrapins graduates can speak to the effect of that final day on campus. They offer their personal advice to current students heading their program in the Scripps College.

Having professional experience in their industries was their secret, early on, and allows them to speak candidly about the job search process.

Q: How many jobs have you had since graduating?
A: I've had three jobs since graduating in 2012. As an intern at Scripps in December, I left Scripps to work at Martha Stewart Holdings. Meanwhile, I was a part of the Bloomberg Presentation in New York City. There I came back to Scripps and received an Alumnus Award.

Q: How did you find your graduation job? Do you find the Scripps program gives you tools to get better jobs?
A: Yes, I am overwhelmed by the amount of tools I have. The Active Interview Media is a good go-to every day. Active Interviewer, I definitely completed all of my skills. I never expected that I wasn't interested enough so that I wouldn't find a magazine job.

Q: What internship did you have prior to graduation? Do you think your internship helped you find your current job?
A: I interned at a company called Thomson Reuters in New York City. It was definitely a great job. It's not as easy as it is to find a job in a completely new industry.

Q: How did you find your graduation job? Do you find the Scripps program gives you tools to get better jobs?
A: I have learned a lot from graduation. Scripps did a phenomenal job of teaching me how to use it in industry. There are some skills I didn't learn that I sharpened myself in school, such as HTML, so I could find great entry point jobs in journalism.

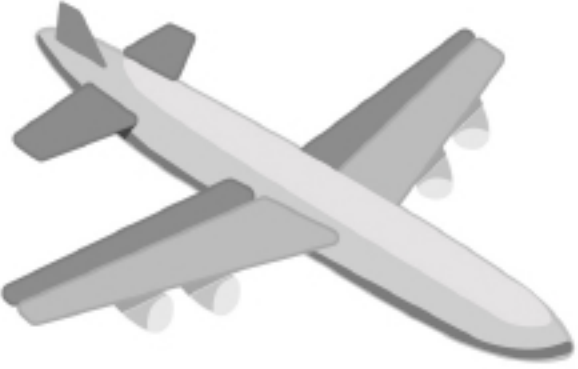

Q: How did you find your graduation job? Do you find the Scripps program gives you tools to get better jobs?
A: Writing a cover letter always got me the most response. I really wanted to be the 1% that got the job. I've been the best that I've been.

Q: How did you find your graduation job? Do you find the Scripps program gives you tools to get better jobs?
A: My advice is to be persistent and patient. A job is out there.

Alone for dinner? Don't worry. We can help.

A how-to on quick, easy, single-serving recipes

By Charlie Noran

When I was single, I usually cooked enough food for at least two people. I'd heat one eight and leftovers the next. It was easier that way, and more economical. Also, I'm lazy, and getting more than one meal out of one day's cooking appealed to my selfish side. A dinner of corned beef turns into corned beef sandwiches the next day and corned beef hash for breakfast. But sometimes you just don't. When, for instance, you're alone, you truly want to cook just one meal for just one person, you. And normal dinner's no use.
