

Alex Mason is a student studying publication design and marketing at Ohio University. She is from Cincinnati, Ohio (go Reds!) and loves all things creative. Determined to achieve success, Alex welcomes challenges that will push her design skills to the next level. As she will be graduating in May 2019, she is seeking a full-time, post-grad position at a design agency.

She is currently the creative director for Southeast Ohio Magazine and an ambassador for the Scripps College of Communication. During the summer of 2018, Alex interned at TwentySix Creative, a design studio in New York City

For professional inquiries, please send email to masonalexandra22@gmail.com.